NEGRESS SAT DOWN IN WOMAN'S LAP

Justice Fines Her $5 for the Offense.

ACT STIRRED ALL BALTIMORE

Mrs. Stiffler Testifies Against Prisoner. Disorderly Conduct Was the Charge.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10.—Eliza Hall, a negress, who gave her address as 612 Carlton Street, was fined $5 and costs by Justice Carr at the Western police station on the charge of assaulting Mrs. Stiffler, 300 South Bond Street, by sitting in her lap on a Westport car shortly before midnight Monday.

Mrs. Stiffler testified that she, together with a sister and a man, were returning from a visit to the resorts along Westport when Eliza boarded the car on Ridgely Street. The car was crowded and the negress, she said, pushed in front of her and then sat in her lap.

The action of the negress caused a commotion, in which several men were about to take an active part when the conductor called Patrolman Strohm and had Eliza arrested.

Eliza Hall's Story.

Eliza insisted that it was only because of the jolt when the car turned suddenly into Camden Street from Poca, that caused her to accidentally fall into Mrs. Stiffler's lap. The woman said that Mrs. Stiffler had stuck her with a hat pin when she tried to get up and it was the pain from the pin which caused her to use some loud and boisterous language.

Justice Carr stated that but for the fact that the woman created considerable disorder by her language and actions he would not have fined her, since he did not believe she sat in Mrs. Stiffler's lap deliberately.

TWO FIGHTING SISTERS MISTAKEN FOR SUICIDES

Cop Finds Them Lying on Sidewalk in Half-Nelson Lock and Thought Them Dying.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Two policemen came upon two young women, locked in each other's embrace, on the sidewalk at Franklin and Wallace Streets. The pronounced odor of a drug assured the patrolmen that the women had taken poison with the idea of dying together.

Without waiting for explanations, they rang for a patrol, and were galloping toward a hospital, when the crew of the wagon began to notice that their passengers had no symptoms of poisoning.

"What are your names?" asked the sergeant.

"I'm Mrs. Catharine Hartman," said one of the women, "and that's my sister, Miss Emma Curry, of Tenth and Spring Garden Streets. Emma got gay up there and slapped me in the face, and it was just giving her a good licking, when the cops plucked us, but the tonic story put the magistrate in such high good humor that he discharged them."

"But—but didn't you take poison?" asked the sergeant.

"I'm Mrs. Catharine Hartman," said one of the women, "and that's my sister, Miss Emma Curry, of Tenth and Spring Garden Streets. ## CENTRAL LABOR UNION TO SETTLE GRIEVANCES

The grievances between the journey-men and their employers are now in the hands of the grievance committee of the Central Labor Union, and hope is held out for an immediate adjustment of the troubles.

It is said that the employment of workmen which, for some time has been the point of issue, will be left an open question, and will possibly be decided by arbitration.

RECEPTION IN HONOR OF MRS. MARY TERRELL

A reception in honor of Mrs. Mary Church Terrell has been arranged for tonight at the Metropolitan A. M. E. Church. The entertainment is intended as a welcome to Mrs. Terrell upon her return from the International Congress of Women recently held in Berlin.

The Rev. Sterling N. Brown will offer the invocation, and addresses of welcome will be delivered by John C. Dancy and Miss Maria L. Jordan. Dr. J. R. Whitely will make the introduction. Mrs. Terrell will respond, and the Rev. O. J. W. Scott will pronounce the benediction. Music will be furnished by the Invaluable Orchestra, under the leadership of Edward Ambler.
